Notification of Copyright Infringements

Dear Sirs,

According to the attached Power of Attorney we act as legal representatives on behalf of the Zentrum für Europäische Wirtschaftsforschung GmbH (ZEW), L 7, 1, 68161 Mannheim, Germany (translated: Centre for European Economic Research, hereinafter referred to as "ZEW") and its employer Dr. Bettina Peters and its former employee Dr. Anja Schmiele. The ZEW is one of Germany's leading economic research institutes.

We have to inform you that you have published in the International Journal of Human Sciences, Vol. 8, Issue 2, Year 2011, on pages 474 ff. the article "Impact of international and home-based research and development (R&D) on innovation performance" by Chris Adalikwu. Mr. Chris Adalikwu apparently has pretended to be the author of this article. This is not the case. The legitimate authors of this article are Dr. Bettina Peters, employee of our client ZEW and Dr. Anja Schmiele, former employee of our client ZEW.

They are the sole authors and therewith exclusive owners of related copyright of the article "The Influence of International Dispersed vs. Homebased R&D on Innovation Performance" listed as ZEW

Discussion Paper Nr. 10-102 in December 2010. Before it was lectured by Dr. Peters and Dr. Schmiele on 28.06.2010 at the AIB Academy of Management in Rio de Janeiro, on 15.05.2010 at the IIOC Internationals Conference on Industrial Economics in Vancouver as well as at MEIDE Micro Evidence on Innovation and Development in Tartu and at EARIE European Association for Research in Industrial Economics in Istanbul. Mr. Adalikwu copied this article more or less identical. We enclose a copy of Ms Peters' and Ms. Schmiele's article (where the identical parts are marked in yellow) as well as Mr Adalikwu's article of 2011. We have therefore required from Mr. Adalikwu to submit a cease-and-desist declaration under contractual penalty.

We would very much appreciate to receive a confirmation from your side about our information of such unacceptable copyright infringement until 27.02.2016 the latest. We ask you to publish in the next edition of the International Journal of Human Sciences in reasonable manner and visible for all readers of the journal the withdrawal of the plagiarism and the appropriate information that such article is not the result of scientific research by Mr. Chris Adalikwu but had been created and compiled by Dr. Bettina Peters and Dr. Anja Schmiele as the sole and authentic authors. We furthermore require that you stop with immediate effect any possibility to access the article of Mr. Adalikwu via the Internet or to download it from any server worldwide. We expect your confirmation that his has been done until 27.02.2016. You have to do anything in your power to enable our clients to publish their scientific paper as primary publication to be accepted as such by the scientific community! We assume that it is the core interest of the editors of the International Journal of Human Sciences to keep free the scientific publications from plagiarism and rib-of committed by violators of copyrights who give oneself airs to be part of the world-wide community of serious scientists.

We wait for your reply,

Sincerely yours
